Solli plass

6 - 11 pm

Trams 12, 13, buses 21, 30, 31

Subway to Nationaltheatret station

6 pm:

ELDAR VÅGAN SINGS "LEILIGHETSVISER".

Concert and conversation with Kari Slaatsveen and Liv Kreken

"Let's sing a sentimental song!" We know these "Leilighetsviser" from weddings, confirmations and traditional dinners. But sentimental songs for occasions can be more than rhymes scribbled on pink paper, and have a long and literary tradition in Norway. Eldar Vågan from Vazelina Bilopphøggers most often sings about life along the Mjøsa. Now after digging in the song archives of the National Library, he brings his unique style to sentimental songs for occasions.

7.30 pm:

HEI HÅ, RA-TA-TA

Conversation with and about Dizzie Tunes

Colourful songs are key to the history of the musicians of the Dizzie Tunes show band. Posters, pictures, song material and lots more about their history has been collected. The band will be present for conversation about the days with Dizzie, before a screening of the revue film "Kjære lille Norge" under an open sky.

9 pm:

KJÆRE LILLE NORGE

(Bohwim & Schanke, 1973)

Open-air cinema

The film is being screened in the Hydroparken right across the road.

"Kjære Lille Norge" is a film version of the "Chat Noir" revue of the same name from 1973 with Arve Opsahl, Elsa Lystad, Kirsti Sparboe and Dizzie Tunes.

CONCERT WITH

IGNAS KRUNGLEVICIUS RIOT (INSTALLATION)

Consciousness spreads to fill the available space, according to the Oslo-based Lithuanian artist, Ignas Krunglevicius. In this sound installation, he tries to produce a type of unity that has not previously existed. Krunglevicius, who was born in Lithuania in 1979, is also a painter and composer. He works with installations, performance and film as well as music. The installation is a part of the Ultimafestivalen and may also be experienced on September 15 and 17 in Hvelvet at Sentralen.

IVAN MAZUZE QUINTET

COSMOPOLITE

www.cosmopolite.no

Vogtsgate 64

Doors open 8 pm

Trams 11, 12, 13. Buses 20, 30

Ivan Mazuze and his quintet present progressive African jazz at its best. The melodies are inspired by South African music mixed with modern percussion tradition. Deeply anchored in jazz's harmony and with a rhythm section consisting of electric bass, guitar and acoustic piano as the foundation, Mazuze improvises in a landscape that moves between jazz and the African urban sound landscape.

www.hvaskjertorshov.no

Vogtsgate 64

7 pm - 3 am

First concert starts at 8 pm.

Trams 11, 12, 13. Buses 20, 30

HVASKJER is a new addition to Oslo Culture. We are the Culture House Soria Moria at Torshov and the following artists are proud to contribute to Oslo Culture Night 2016 :

SINDRI is best known as the front man of Dog Almighty. He is often compared with artists such as Jeff Buckley, Tool and Seigmen. Sindri sounds like a complete symphony orchestra even though it is just him with an acoustic guitar on stage. He also has Luis Landa Schreitt with him on percussion and the eminent artist Kråker.

SUNSETS GROOVE consists of Emilio Grueso from Spain (keyboard), Carlos Steinmann from Mexico (guitar), Javier Albarrán from Spain (bass) and Luis Landa-Schreitt from Honduras/Germany (drums). They play their own instrumental music compositions: groovy funk/soul with a hint of flamenco mixed in.

GURO is 24 year old Guro Marstad from Melhus. With one foot in Trøndelag and one in American soul, Guro has created her own genre of trønder soul! She is now releasing her first solo record in connection with Culture Night at Hvaskjer, which was recorded at Stable Studios in Oslo and produced by Leif Johansen (A-ha, Phenomena, Rita Eriksen).

LUDVIG is a band that was established by the composer and songwriter Truls Ludvig Johnsen (Tuba Tuba, Kåre K trio) in the summer of 2011. The music may be described as a variation on folk/pop, with captivating melodies and complex arrangements.

7 pm: CONVERSATION BETWEEN ARTIST VANNA BOWLES AND ART CRITIC MONA GJESSING.

Vanna Bowles' work consists of drawing, sculpture, performance and installation. Thematically, she finds herself in the borders between nature and culture, presence and subconsciousness. She creates ambivalence in relation to these oppositions. Bowles' idiom is figurative and surrealistic.

The event forms a part of Vanna Bowles' exhibition "Shield and rupture" at Kunstplass [10] which consists of drawings and installations.

IN TRANSIT

Torshov Transit Reception Centre – how does the built-up environment affect an asylum seekers' stay in a reception centre?

In 2015, over 31,000 asylum seekers sought asylum in Norway.

Is there a connection between the architecture surrounding asylum seekers and identity, a sense of security, policy and legislation?

Asylum seekers constantly experience being moved around. Temporary transit accommodation may end up being for such a long time that it is experienced as permanent.

How can architects contribute to finding new ways to meet asylum seekers' needs in this period?

Torshov Transit Reception Centre is one of 10 places around the world presented in the exhibition "Om å komme til" (On arriving to...).

The exhibition is a part of Oslo Architecture Triennale 2016.

IDA HAGEN

www.idahagen.no

Trafoen in Frankrikegården (by Mastrups gate 13)

6 - 10 pm

Trams 12, 13 to Torshov

Ida Hagen creates unique hand-woven wall hangings and experiments with the relationship between different types of yarn, colours, shapes and textures. She seldom works from a clear, predetermined idea, but lets the process take over. Ida is very preoccupied with the actual handicraft and blends traditional weaving techniques with a modern idiom – often with humour.

She loves being alone and undisturbed in front of the loom – in order to touch, reflect on and be close to soft, pure natural materials.

On Culture Night, Ida is holding a sales exhibition and introductory course in weaving. Course 7 - 9 pm.

Buses 34, 54 to Møllerveien

We are constantly being fed information from all over the globe at all times. Something is always happening that requires engagement, more information and more discussion. Staying focused can be challenging. We have challenged four choreographers to delve into a given topic for 24 hours. In a day and a night four different works shall be created. A high-speed creative process does not have much room for anything other than being effective and honest. All four works are performed in one show. The dance collective is an artistic collective that organizes dance performances on non-traditional stages in terms of dance.

With the Biblical texts that inspired the artist and musical illustrations from the organist Bjørn Kleppe. Per Vigeland completed the glass paintings in the period from 1947-1962.

6 pm: This is what the church and the chapel could have been like – unrealised plans for architecture and art. The church was built in 1907 after an architecture competition. What would it have looked like if the other suggestions had been chosen? The chapel was built on in 1939.

But there have also been other plans for the chapel. Today Per Vigeland's glass paintings adorn the church. In between the wars, quite different plans for its adornment were being considered. Besides, there is the mystery of a Henrik Sørensen painting that went missing. With Jardar Seim.

7 pm: Frogner chamber choir

Wergelandsveien 29

Subway to Nationaltheatret. Tram 11 to Homansbyen or trams 17, 18 to Dalsbergstien

6: NORAH LANGE. LECTURE BY CÉSAR AIRA

Norah Lange, who had Norwegian roots, was a central player of the Argentinian literary avant garde in the 20s and 30s, in a milieu inhabited by greats such as Jorge Luis Borges and Horacio Quiroga. Lange was a pioneer and an innovator within Argentinian prose. But how does her work read today?

César Aira is one of the major stars in Argentinian literature's constellation. Listen to him tell the story of an authorship he holds in high esteem. Introduced by Kjartan Fløgstad.

7.30: A THOUSAND AND ONE CATS. TOR ÅGE BRINGSVÆRD ON CATS

Lecture with Tor Åge Bringsværd. The cat is the only "domestic animal" that has never been tamed. He has stoked our imagination. No other animal has set such deep pawmarks on human history; or been the object of so much love and hate, respect and fear, imagination and superstition.

In his new book, 1001 cats, author Tor Åge Bringsværd sticks his paw into a veritable sea of feline traditions – myths, fables and fairy tales from all eras and from all corners of the world. Hear him this evening at the House of Literature.

9 pm: OPEN MIC WITH LARS HAGA RAAVAND

In the basement of the House of Literature, we turn on the microphone for those who would like to read a novel extract, prose poetry, diary notes, or perhaps song lyrics with or without guitar accompaniment? This is the place for emerging writers and those who have been on the circuit for a while and would like to try something new.

The evening is led by poet Lars Haga Raavand. To date he has released two books, poetry and prose collection Hvalfall from 2012 and the poetry collection, Skoggangssang. His latest work is Vannsikt in which he etches three sisters' lives.

Over three floors and with more than 50 fun installations, we take you on an informative and entertaining tour of our bottle paradise. A different and interactive museum which both young and old will enjoy. And we have had a facelift in time for this year!

The small bottle prince tells you about the museum's highlights and secrets at 6 pm, 8 pm and 10 pm. Refreshments may be purchased at The Mini Bar.

TANKEBARNET

HOUSE OF LITERATURE (NEDJMA)

www.ingernitter.no

Wergelandsveien 29

7 - 9 pm

Tram to Homansbyen or Frydenlundgata

The performance "Tankebarnet" explains why it considers that people are properly built when "something flips inside your head". Nitter uses her own experiences and connects them to the piano of Chopin, Beethoven and Schubert and with the poetry of Andre Bjerke, Olav H. Hauge and Inger Hagerup. Nitter has previously been admitted to Blakstad psychiatric hospital. Her fans have commented on encounters with the Norwegian psychological health services. "I woke up and understood that something was fundamentally wrong with the system. One thing became clear to me: People are put together properly when they have psychiatric reactions."

DEBATE WITH BLASPHEMOUS SONG AND MUSIC

THE NORWEGIAN HEATHEN SOCIETY

www.hedning.no

Egertorget

6 - 11 pm

Subway to Stortinget station

The Norwegian Heathen Society is working for liberation from religion with the use of blasphemy, satire and humour. We defend freedom of expression and freedom from religion. We are celebrating Culture Night with blasphemous song and music and an open mic. We will help you to deregister from the Church and join the Heathen Society. If you want to be de-christened, we have a water jug and hairdryers.

We are currently particularly concerned with issues such as human rights, the question of Christian principles embedded in the legal basis of the running of schools, critical thinking in schools and the fact that we should be able to criticize Islam as we criticize Christianity and Judaism.
